INTRODUCTION

Fever In The Community

Below are some of the ways the Fever is active in the community. Questions on how to become involved with your favorite Fever activity may be directed to Dan Gaines, Fever Community Relations Manager, by calling (317) 917-2500.

BE SMART - BE FIT - BE YOURSELF

The WNBA will embrace its responsibility as the preeminent women's professional sports league with powerful role models to continue to deliver important messages and programs related to the areas of health, fitness, nutrition and self esteem.

WNBA Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself will encourage teens and women of all ages to learn more about their bodies and the importance of physical fitness. Programming has been developed to encourage teens and women to get started on "being fit" through small changes in their daily regimen.

The program will serve as a year-long "call to action" for teens and women to make a commitment to being fit and healthy.

As it has in each of the league's previous nine seasons, the WNBA's Breast Health Awareness program works to generate awareness and educate women about breast cancer in addition to raising funds for the initiative. The program includes national and local outreach to educate people about this important cause.

The WNBA is proud to have the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation as a partner and beneficiary of the program. The Komen Foundation is a global leader in the fight against breast cancer through its support of innovative research and community-based outreach programs.

BE SMART - BE FIT - BE YOURSELF CLINICS

As part of the WNBA's Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself initiative, the Fever conducts monthly fitness clinics during the season. Fever players and coaches teach children the value of staying healthy, eating right and maintaining a positive attitude. The program gets the kids active in a number of exercises and basketball drills, in addition to games, contests and book readings.

BREAST HEALTH AWARENESS NIGHT

Each year the Fever holds a special Breast Health Awareness Night at a game. During this game the Fever concentrates on bringing awareness to breast cancer. In conjunction with this special promotion, the Fever conducts a health fair in Conseco Fieldhouse where several organizations distribute educational materials about breast cancer. Pink ribbons and other giveaways are distributed, and breast cancer survivors are recognized during the pregame ball exchange. A portion of ticket sales proceeds is presented annually to the Indianapolis affiliate of the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. The 2006 Breast Health Awareness Night is presented by St. Vincent Breast Center.

Fever In The Community

F.E.V.E.R.

For Every Victory Earns Respect! Fever players spend nearly three months between January and March each year speaking to Indianapolis-area fifth-grade boys and girls about the value of setting and achieving goals. Several appearances by Fever players are made at schools in the Indianapolis Public School (IPS) system during the annual tour.

GOVERNOR'S FITNESS CHALLENGE

Since 2001, the Fever has partnered with the Indiana Governor's Office to present the Governor's Fitness Challenge to state schools. The school with the most students who complete a nine-week fitness challenge wins a one-hour Fever fitness and basketball clinic hosted by Fever players at their school.

SELF-ESTEEM SEMINAR

Since its inaugural season in 2000, the Fever has welcomed young girls from Indianapolis Public Schools at the team's Self-Esteem Seminar. One of the franchise's primary community relations initiatives, the purpose of the seminar is to help boost self-esteem, to help avoid drug use, alcoholism, teen pregnancy and crime. Usually held in April prior to the start of training camp, several players participate in conjunction with prominent women in the Indianapolis community who help comprise the Fever Advisory Team.

INTRODUCTION

Fever In The Community

READ TO ACHIEVE

The WNBA Read to Achieve program is a year-round, league-wide initiative that promotes the value of reading and online literacy and encourages families and adults to read regularly with young children. These efforts by the WNBA help build a lifelong love of reading in young people and provide greater access to books and technology for children.

Supported by Reading Is Fundamental and Scholastic, Inc., Read to Achieve promotes reading through in-arena events, public service announcements and school and community appearances throughout the year. WNBA players, coaches and family members also join members of the NBA family on local and national All-Star Reading Teams.

READING TIMEOUTS

The foundation of the Read To Achieve program are Reading TimeOuts. These events are individual reading sessions that players share with children. The players also talk to children and parents about the value of reading and education. Reading TimeOuts are conducted throughout the year at elementary schools and in conjunction with other Fever events.

Each year, the Fever teams with the Indiana Pacers to host Reading TimeOuts throughout the Indianapolis area. As a team, the Fever tips off its annual Read to Achieve initiative with a special event prior to each season.

Other Reading TimeOuts and programs include a program in conjunction with Indiana Black Expo during Black History Month in February, and reading events throughout the Fever season.

COURTSIDE FEVER

Courtside Fever is published 12 times in The Indianapolis Star during the Fever season. This "Newspapers in Education/Partnership for Young Readers" program is designed to promote critical thinking and enhance math and statistical skills, while at the same time encouraging our youth to read. In addition, a Fever coach or player is featured each week, so that the youth can learn more about the Fever team.

JR. NBA / JR. WNBA

The Jr. NBA and Jr. WNBA, is a support organization for recreational youth basketball leagues in the United States, Canada and abroad that connects players, parents, coaches and officials to heighten awareness and participation in youth basketball. Approximately 1,200 youth basketball leagues and about 600,000 players (boys and girls, ages 5-14 years-old) are 2005-06 Jr. NBA and Jr. WNBA members. WNBA players and coaches make drop-in visits and participate in special events with Jr. WNBA leagues across the country.

JR. WNBA DROP-INS

Another element of the Jr. WNBA program involves special drop-ins by Fever players at Boys & Girls Clubs of Indianapolis participating in the Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA program. During the visits the players were part of a number of activities: conducting mini-camps, taking part in drills with the children, speaking to kids and answering questions about the keys to their success, and signing autographs.

Fever In The Community

GRASSROOTS BASKETBALL DEVELOPMENT

The Fever is committed to helping to provide opportunities for children to learn and compete in the game of basketball. As part of that effort the Fever has implemented its own youth basketball league and camp.

FEVER / YMCA JR. HOOPS CAMP

For a sixth season in 2005, the Fever partnered with the YMCA to host a girls' basketball league from June-August for girls ages 6-15. Young girls not only played in the basketball league and received a free jersey, they also get the opportunity to interact with Fever players and attend a pre-selected Fever game. The Fever hosted the finals of the league at Conseco Fieldhouse. In 2006, the Fever and YMCA will offer a Junior Hoops Camp instead of the league.

FEVER BASKETBALL SKILLS CAMP

Since 2004, the Fever has conducted basketball skills camps for youth ages 10-17. The one-of-a-kind experience spans two days and features Fever players and coaches as instructors. Camps include skill development stations, competitions, games and special sit-down chats between players and the campers on a number of basketball topics. There is an awards ceremony, special group photo, goodie bag giveaway and a Fever team autograph session.

Fever In The Community

PLAYERS IN THE COMMUNITY

The WNBA connects with fans of all ages through extensive community outreach. As the league marks the ninth season of the WNBA, the players continue to be recognized for their commitment and dedication to fans in cities across America. The WNBA has three primary community initiatives: WNBA Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself, WNBA Read to Achieve and Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA presented by Gatorade and Nike. In addition to these initiatives, the WNBA honors players who are active in their communities with the WNBA Community Assist Award presented four times a year.

FEVER PLAYERS HONORED WITH WNBA COMMUNITY ASSIST AWARDS

Indiana is fortunate to have a number of outstanding female role models on the Fever roster that make unbelievable efforts to give back to the fans and the community. In 2005, two Fever players were recognized for their efforts with WNBA Community Assist Awards.

Ebony Hoffman was honored by the league for the many appearances she made during the 2005 preseason on behalf of the team. Her involvement in programs like F.E.V.E.R., Read to Achieve, Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA and the Fever's Self-Esteem Seminar earned her the award.

Tamika Catchings has earned the reputation as one of the WNBA's most devoted players to the community. She added to her reputation in 2005 when she was recognized by the league in July for her many off-the-court endeavors. Whether it was signing autographs or holding clinics for kids Catchings impacted thousands of lives throughout the 2005 season.

The Fever has consistently had players win the Community Assist Awards. Catchings has been an offseason recipient as well as a four-time winner of in-season awards. Other past winners include Niele Ivey, Nikki McCray, Kelly Schumacher and Natalie Williams. In all, Fever players have garnered WNBA Community Assist Awards on 10 occasions.

PREGAME BALL EXCHANGE

A trademark of the WNBA and the Fever, the pregame ball exchange affords youngsters an opportunity to receive a game ball from Fever players prior to the tipoff of each game.

FEVER FRIENDS

In partnership with Big Brothers Big Sisters of Central Indiana, the Fever match young boys and girls with an adult mentor to attend Fever games throughout the season. Through this program, Fever players interact with kids and serve as role models. Fever Friends, which started during the inaugural Fever season, partnered exclusively with Big Sisters of Indiana prior to 2003. Since the Big Brothers and Big Sisters programs merged, the Fever began hosting boys and girls.

FEVER ADVISORY TEAM

In a unique partnership with the Indianapolis community, the Fever created a Community Advisory Team in January 2000. The Advisory Team is a support group, which consists of nearly 30 prominent and influential women in the Indianapolis area.

The Advisory Team for 2005, among others, included elected officials, business leaders and civic leaders, including:

Julia CarsonUnited States Congresswoman
Susan CrosbyIndiana State Representative
Connie LawsonIndiana State Senator
Lyn St. JamesFormer Indy Racing League Driver
Dr. Virginia CaineDirector of the Marion County Health Department

Martha WeaverWRTV Television News Anchor
Advisory Team Chair Patzetta TriceDirector of Communications & Public Affairs for Allison Transmissions

"These women are key leaders in the community and corporate arena, so to have them as part of our family as we go forward is essential to our long-term success," Fever Chief Operating Officer/General Manager Kelly Krauskopf said. "We need their advice and support and I am honored that they have agreed to assist us with the building of our franchise."

The partnership between the Fever and the community leaders is the first of its kind in the WNBA's nine-year history. The intent of the Advisory Team is to galvanize support from some of the most influential women in the city and to assist the Fever with various community programs.

Pacers Foundation, Inc.

WHO WE ARE

Pacers Foundation, Inc., the public charity founded by Pacers Sports & Entertainment, is dedicated to improving the lives of Indiana's young people by building individual and corporate partnerships that will provide assistance for projects that benefit Indiana's youth. Since its inception in 1993, Pacers Foundation has awarded more than $4.5 million in cash and in-kind donations through grants to youth-serving organizations, scholarships and Indiana Pacers and Indiana Fever tickets.

HOW WE GIVE BACK

ANNUAL GRANT AWARDS

Pacers Foundation, Inc. will grant $160,000 during 2005-06 to 37 non-profit organizations offering programming to underserved youth throughout Indiana. Recipients of these funds during the 2005-06 Pacers season include organizations such as 100 Black Men of Indianapolis, Children's Bureau, Damar Services, Michiana Early Childhood Academy, Pathway Family Center, Special Olympics, Young Audiences of Indiana and the Youth Philanthropy Initiative of Indiana.

DISCRETIONARY GRANT AWARDS

Annually, $50,000 is also donated to youth-serving organizations through the Pacers Foundation Discretionary Grant fund for youth programs.

COMMUNITY TICKETS

More than $500,000 in Pacers and Fever tickets are purchased by Pacers and Fever sponsors and season ticket holders and donated to Pacers Foundation for distribution to children throughout the state of Indiana. The Pacers Community Ticket Block program and the Fever's Give-A-Game program allow Indiana children to experience a Pacers or Fever game possibly for the first time.

FEVER FUND OF PACERS FOUNDATION, INC.

The mission of the Fever Fund is to team up with community-based organizations that focus on empowering young women through programs that build character and self-esteem, providing them with the strength and confidence to improve the quality of their lives, take control of their future and achieve their dreams.

During the 2005 Fever season, the Fever Fund distributed $16,500 in grants to the following organizations: Children's Bureau/Vivian Smith Teen Parenting Program, Coburn Place, Girl Scouts of Hoosier Capital Council, Girl Scouts of Tulip Trace Council, Girls, Inc. of Indianapolis, Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation and St. Elizabeth/Coleman Pregnancy and Adoption Services.

LINDA CRAIG MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP PRESENTED BY ST.VINCENT SPORTS MEDICINE

The Linda Craig Memorial Scholarship presented by St.Vincent Sports Medicine provides $2,000 scholarships for undergraduate college students presently enrolled in an Indiana college or university. The scholarship is awarded to deserving students with an academic major of medicine, sports medicine, physical therapy and/or other related disciplines.

The scholarship was established in the memory of Linda Lorraine Sharvelle Craig by former Pacers team trainer and current Assistant to the CEO, David Craig, and Dr. John Abrams. The scholarship is supported by those who remember Linda and want to perpetuate her legacy through the scholarship recipients.

SIGNATURE GRANT

In October 2003, Pacers Foundation launched a Signature Grant encouraging organizations to apply for this grant to benefit any diversity/tolerance youth program. Peace Learning Center was chosen as the recipient of the 3-year $75,000 grant to expand their Help Increase the Peace Program. HIPP teaches students skills to respond to conflicts without violence, analyze the impact of diversity and justice on their lives and the lives of others and work on taking action for positive, nonviolent personal and social change. HIPP was introduced to middle school and high school students in the Indianapolis area and will expand to serve even more schools in Indiana through the Pacers Foundation Signature Grant.

TEAMUP SCHOLARSHIP

The TeamUp Scholarship presented by Veolia Water Indianapolis recognizes Indiana high school seniors for their outstanding community service. Indiana-resident students are awarded $2,000 scholarships, which can be used at any accredited four-year college or university, or two-year community or junior college. Scholarship recipients exhibit a strong record of community service that encourages other young people to develop an understanding of critical issues facing society and propose ways to address the needs of others.

INTRODUCTION

Pacers Foundation, Inc.

HOW WE DO IT ALL

Through the generous cash and in-kind donations from Pacers and Fever sponsors, season ticket holders and fans and various fundraising events, Pacers Foundation is able to make a significant impact on the youth of Indiana.

FANTASY CAMP PRESENTED BY MILLER LITE

In January 2006, Pacers Foundation, Inc. held its second Fantasy Basketball Camp where participants had a chance to participate in a training camp, travel with the Pacers on their trip to Los Angeles, and play against a team from the L.A. Lakers. Campers were coached by former Pacers' players Darnell Hillman and Rik Smits. For three days, the campers participated in drills and scrimmages, before heading to L.A., where they enjoyed a team breakfast before their big game hosted by Bobby "Slick" Leonard, suited up in their personalized official Pacers uniforms in the STAPLES Center visitors' locker room, and took the court to play the "Lakers." After a devastating loss, the campers watched the Pacers' game vs. the Lakers. Before returning to Indianapolis, the campers played a round of golf at the Malibu Country Club. In addition, camp participants received a team photo, a highlight DVD, an unofficial contract with the Pacers, an unofficial press release announcing such contract and an autographed basketball from their coaches.

GOLF OUTING PRESENTED BY MARSH

The 2005 Pacers Foundation Golf Outing presented by Marsh raised more than $135,000 for Pacers Foundation. This annual event is a great opportunity for sponsors and Pacers fans to mingle with current and former Pacers players and coaches, the Pacemates, Boomer and other celebrities, while at the same time helping the community.

SILENT AUCTIONS

During select Pacers and Fever games, Pacers Foundation holds silent auctions of sports memorabilia, including game-worn and autographed items from sports legends and various teams throughout the NBA, WNBA, National Football League, Major League Baseball and National Hockey League.

FEVER FUND BOWLING TOURNAMENT PRESENTED BY FEDEX

Another program assisted by the Fever Advisory Team is a bowling tournament to help raise funds for the Fever Fund of Pacers Foundation. The Fever Fund has made its Fever Fund Bowling Tournament an annual event with Fever players and coaches participating on over 20 teams. The Fever Fund has raised nearly $46,000 from the bowling tournament since its inception in 2001. This year's tournament on July 19 is sponsored by FedEx and is hosted by Pinheads in Fishers, Ind.

MONSTER MASQUERADE PRESENTED BY NATIONAL CITY BANK

Benefiting Pacers Foundation, Inc. and Simon Youth Foundation, Monster Masquerade presented by National City Bank offers guests an evening of frightening fun. Monster Masquerade includes cocktails, dinner, dancing, live entertainment, a live auction and recognition of a community leader. Past honorees include Donnie Walsh, Clark Kellogg and Bobby "Slick" Leonard and Reggie Miller. Monster Masquerade serves as one of the largest fundraisers for Pacers Foundation and has raised over $1.8 Million for both foundations since 2002.

Pacers Academy

On the court, the Indiana Pacers have served as one of most successful franchises in the National Basketball Association, making the playoffs 16 of the last 17 seasons. Off the court, the Pacers have delivered a success of another kind.

On Aug. 23, 2001, Pacers Academy opened, the first school to be sponsored by an NBA team (two NFL teams, Seattle and San Francisco have similar programs). With classrooms in downtown Indianapolis' Union Station, the Academy is an alternative middle and secondary school for at-risk students in the Indianapolis Public School system. The Pacers, IPS, Simon Youth Foundation, the City of Indianapolis and Costco Wholesale are sponsors of the school, which serves roughly 115 students in grades six through 12. Students study English, math, social studies, physical education and art.

In five years, the Academy has graduated 40 students and 122 have been promoted from middle school to high schools, with approximately 70 percent of the enrollment at the Academy at the middle school level.

"The Pacers' emphasis has always been the well-being of young people in our community," said Pacers Sports & Entertainment's CEO/President Donnie Walsh. "We have always been involved in activities that promote opportunity for young people to have better lives. That is what Pacers Academy will provide - greater opportunities for the young people who attend this academy. We hope the rest of the NBA follows our lead."

"Pacers Academy is an excellent example of cooperation and collaboration between IPS, city government and the Indianapolis business community," said Indianapolis Mayor Bart Peterson. "We believe that many new educational opportunities will be created as a result of this partnership."

The Pacers are partners in the project in much more than name. The franchise will use a variety of its resources, ranging from community partners, corporate sponsors and team personnel, to assist teachers and students in improving in such areas as attendance, academic performance, citizenship and community involvement.

"Our purpose here at Pacers Academy is to identify children that are considered to be at risk of not finishing school," said Pacers Academy Principal Mike Chisley. "Through the efforts of staff and the community, we want to help these students get back in school to fulfill their dreams of getting a quality education."

The middle school curriculum features participation in service-learning projects such as Habitat for Humanity, and emphasizes interdisciplinary and thematic units as well as skill development.

High school students participate in career internships with local businesses, including PS&E. A computer-based curriculum allows students to work independently and also includes career-development courses used for teaching marketable skills.

Classes begin at 9:50 a.m. and run through 4:50 p.m.

A key element in pulling it all together is developing close relationships not only with the students, but with their parents or guardians.

"There's been so much blame; it's the school's fault, it's the parents' fault, it's the child's fault. It's nobody's fault. It's our responsibility to make this work, and the only way we can do that is to have a Pacers Academy family and we're already seeing that happening."

The Pacers have developed a full menu of ways to assist students. The franchise is offering:

- Mentoring opportunities;
- Job shadowing;
- Tours of and classes at Conseco Fieldhouse;
- Merchandise and tickets for rewards and incentives;
- Guest appearances by Pacers and Fever players and coaches;
- Volunteer opportunities;
- Social gatherings and functions;
- Internships.

Though the Pacers and Fever have been heavily involved in a variety of community relations projects over the years, Pacers Academy represents a substantial commitment.

With seven licensed teachers, a social worker and a part-time guidance counselor on staff and an enrollment that has a maximum of 140, the teacher-student ratio is a relatively low 1:19, encouraging more one-on-one interaction.

Students who have experienced difficulty with attendance and grades in traditional school settings may apply for admission to the school. Their consideration is a joint decision based on parent, student and school recommendation, and includes a mandatory interview with each student and a parent or guardian. Students who have been expelled from IPS schools will not be considered.

"Pacers Academy is a tremendous concept and a super partnership," said IPS Superintendent Dr. Eugene G. White. "However, the most important feature is the opportunity for our students to receive a unique educational experience. Pacers Academy enables our students to learn by being actively involved in the process. The service-learning component allows them to give something special to our community and hopefully it will change their lives in a special way."

CEO and President / Pacers Sports & Entertainment

DONNIE WALSH

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER AND PRESIDENT/
PACERS SPORTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Not only has Donnie Walsh been an assistant coach, general manager and now, CEO/President, for the Indiana Pacers, he has been the franchise's constant builder and believer.

On and off the court.

Under Walsh's leadership, the Pacers have become one of the NBA's elite teams, reaching the NBA Finals in 2000, reaching the Eastern Conference Finals six times and winning four Central Division Championships. Consider that when Walsh took over the Pacers as general manager in April 1986, the team was coming off a 26-56 season and had reached the playoffs only once in 10 NBA seasons. Under Walsh's guidance, the Pacers have reached the playoffs 16 of the last 17 years and also brought three of the game's most respected names, Larry Brown, Larry Bird and Isiah Thomas (all Hall of Famers), in to coach the team.

His ability to mold the Pacers into one of the top franchises, while continually keeping the team competitive, earned him recognition in the 2000-01 season from Bloomberg News Service as the NBA's top basketball executive in a vote of the league's coaches.

Walsh's track record speaks for itself, considering in the last 10 years the Pacers have the best winning percentage (.602) of any team in the Eastern Conference and fourth-best in the NBA behind the L.A. Lakers, San Antonio and Utah.

In that span, the 1999-2000 season was one of the more interesting, yet impressive, trips to the postseason. In June, the Pacers traded veteran Antonio Davis to Toronto for the draft rights to a talented high school player, Jonathan Bender, the fifth overall pick in the NBA Draft. Many predicted the Pacers to not only finish low in the Eastern Conference, but in the bottom half of the Central Division.

At season's end, the Pacers had not only won the Central Division for the second straight year, but for the first time in franchise history had compiled the best outright record in the Eastern Conference at 56-26. That mark stands as the Pacers' third-best overall record in the team's NBA history. The Pacers also tied a league-best (with the L.A. Lakers) 36-5 record at home that included a 25-game home winning streak, both franchise records.

In the playoffs, the Pacers beat Milwaukee and Philadelphia before meeting their old nemesis, the New York Knicks, in the Eastern Conference Finals. But there, the Pacers won their first-ever Eastern Conference Championship in six games and advanced to the NBA Finals for the first time. There, they fell to the Los Angeles Lakers in six games for the world championship.

After that season, Walsh made a bold move by beginning to rebuild the team without tearing it up. With the retirement of Rick Smits as a player, Bird as the coach and the loss of point guard Mark Jackson to free agency, the Pacers were definitely going to change. The key move in that offseason came when Walsh traded veteran All-Star forward Dale Davis to Portland for a young talent named Jermaine O'Neal, who has since become a three-time NBA All-Star, the 2002 Most Improved Player and a league MVP candidate. Walsh also brought in Thomas to coach the team and for three straight years, the Pacers continued to make the playoffs while making steady improvement, winning 41, 42 and 48 games.

Four years later, under Walsh's guidance, the Pacers have already returned to the elite of the league. Under new coach Rick Carlisle, the 2003-04 Pacers won the Central Division, compiled the best record in the NBA (61-21), set franchise records for road wins in the NBA (27), total victories and winning percentage (.744) while reaching the Eastern Conference Finals again.

Now, Walsh is putting a different stamp on the franchise, having named Bird as President of Basketball Operations in July 2003, to take the team into the next era.

"My personal goal for the Pacers' franchise was to always be included in the great tradition of Indiana basketball with both high school and college," said Walsh. "Our reaching the NBA Finals and reaching the Conference Finals six out of 11 years is a point of excellence that I think puts us in that category of Indiana basketball and reflects well on the basketball in this state. I think we're now firmly part of that mix and I feel good about that. But the ultimate goal is still to win a championship."

Off the court, Walsh oversaw another building process. As the Pacers headed toward the next century, the need for a new arena in downtown Indianapolis was becoming more and more evident. In 1994, after the Pacers reached the Eastern Conference Finals for the first time, he began quiet discussions with city leaders.

On July 22, 1997, ground was broken.

Today, 18,345-seat Conseco Fieldhouse fits neatly into place in downtown Indianapolis, the NBA, and with Indiana's rich basketball tradition for a very unique trifecta. The retro-style, multi-purpose facility has drawn rave reviews for its blending of the modern amenities - such as suites and club seats - with attention to the basketball heritage of Indiana and ensuring that all fans are at home in what is truly a basketball house. It is a basketball destination and a tourist attraction.

In the 1999-2000 season and postseason, the Pacers sold out every game in the Fieldhouse, the first time that had been done in franchise history. In that season, the only other NBA teams to sell out every home game were the Chicago Bulls and New York Knicks.

CEO and President / Pacers Sports & Entertainment

"I think it culminates all of our dreams for the Pacers, but I think it also encompasses everything that is Indiana basketball to me," said Walsh. "That was our goal when we started this and I'm talking about when we started back in 1986 to build a team. We wanted the team to be a part of the tradition of Indiana basketball, which it really hadn't been up until that point in the NBA. It has been a long process over many years, but I think it culminates with Conseco Fieldhouse because it kind of embodies it."

On both counts of building the Pacers and Conseco Fieldhouse, it took a believer. Walsh fits that mold perfectly.

In 1986, the Pacers were struggling. They had lost two key players, Clark Kellogg and Steve Stipanovich, to career-ending knee injuries. But Walsh, rarely taking a day off in his 18 years on the job, believed he could turn the franchise around. And he has.

Starting with his first draft, Walsh took Chuck Person, who went on to become Rookie of the Year. Person, with Detlef Schrempf, acquired by Walsh in a trade, and a young gun named Reggie Miller who was drafted by Walsh, led the Pacers to the first of many memorable playoff series, a five-game loss to Bird and the Boston Celtics in 1991.

In 1993, Walsh hired Brown as coach and in 1994 they reached the Eastern Conference Finals before losing to New York in seven games. In 1995, the Pacers again reached the East Finals (losing to Orlando), but they had their first 50-win NBA season and won their first NBA banner, the Central Division championship.

The 1996 playoff run was cut short by Atlanta in the first round, but Miller missed the first four games of that series with an eye injury. In 1997, the Pacers slipped to 39-43 and didn't make the playoffs for the first time in seven seasons, due to injuries to Smits, Derrick McKee and key backup, Raymundo Workman. Brown resigned in April, but Walsh - thinking ahead as always - had a high-profile replacement ready, the legendary Bird.

The Pacers finished the 1997-98 season with, at the time, an NBA team record 58 victories and their 58-24 record provided a .707 winning percentage, the best in franchise history at the time. They also went the last 63 games of the regular season without losing two straight games. Also that season, the Pacers compiled the best record in the East at the All-Star break, earning the coaching staff of Bird and assistants Dick Harter and Carlisle, All-Star coaching honors. They were joined in New York by Miller and Smits, at that time only the second time in team history the Pacers had two NBA All-Stars. Bird eventually was named Coach of the Year and the Pacers extended the eventual World Champion Chicago Bulls to seven games before losing in the Eastern Conference Finals. Then, in 1998-99, the Pacers tied for the best record in the Eastern Conference (33-17) and won their second Central Division championship.

With Conseco Fieldhouse rising in the Indianapolis skyline, Walsh has seen two projects reach prominence and he wants them to stay there.

"Looking back at it, I'm glad we've been able to get the team to the point where it is," he said. "There's great satisfaction in doing that. As for Conseco Fieldhouse, I get the feeling of accomplishment in the sense that after being here for so many years, if I have a part in this building it's that it is something permanent I can look back on and think, 'Well, I had something to do with that.'"

The 65-year-old (3/1/41) Walsh has also seen fan appreciation rise during his tenure. Attendance in Market Square Arena was the highest in franchise history the last 12 seasons before the record-breaking move to the Fieldhouse, capped by 1995-96 in which the Pacers had a record average of 16,438, that included 29 sellouts and a season-ending run of 13 straight sellouts. In 1997-98, fans filled MSA to 96 percent of its capacity and in its last season an average of 16,182 (98 percent capacity) visited MSA. In 25 home dates in the 1998-99 season, the Pacers had 15 sellouts.

Walsh, who in 1988 was named president of the Pacers Basketball Corporation (now Pacers Sports & Entertainment which runs the Pacers, the WNBA's Indiana Fever, Pacers Foundation, Inc. and also directs the management of Conseco Fieldhouse), has spent his life in and around basketball.

An outstanding high school player in New York City, Walsh played at North Carolina under Frank McGuire and Dean Smith. After graduating with a bachelor of arts degree in political science, Walsh attended the North Carolina Law School and helped coach the Tar Heels' freshman team for two seasons.

After graduating from law school and turning down offers from then former Vice President Richard Nixon's law firm in New York City and the U.S. Justice Department's Honors programs, he took a graduate coaching position under Smith at North Carolina and then became an associate head coach under McGuire at South Carolina. In 1977, Walsh was about to enter private law practice in South Carolina, but Brown, the head coach of the Denver Nuggets, asked Walsh to join him as an assistant. Walsh stayed with the Nuggets as an assistant coach and a head coach before entering private business in 1982.

But in 1984, Walsh was back in basketball as a Pacers' assistant to George Irvine. He remained on the bench until becoming general manager two years later. He has since been a member of the U.S. Olympic Games Committee for men's basketball for Dream Teams I and II.

Walsh's knowledge, professionalism, accessibility and courtesy are highly-recognized throughout the NBA by players, coaches, front office personnel and the media. He is also a respected member of the Indianapolis community, serving on the boards of many charities. In June 2004, he was honored with the Indiana Pathfinder Award for his contributions to causes involving youth.

He and his wife, Judy, both natives of New York, have five children and live in Indianapolis. They also are avid dog lovers.

President of Basketball Operations

LARRY BIRD

PRESIDENT OF BASKETBALL OPERATIONS

Throughout his life, Larry Bird has faced the doubters. They have been mismatches.

Doubled as a player, Bird became a high school All-Star, college Player of the Year, 12-time NBA All-Star and three-time NBA MVP. Doubled as a coach, Bird compiled a 147-67 record in three seasons as coach of the Pacers, winning Coach of the Year honors in 1998 and leading the team to its first ever NBA Finals appearance in 2000.

Now, Bird has taken on a new challenge and more doubters. On July 11, 2003, Pacers Sports & Entertainment's CEO/President Donnie Walsh named Bird the team's President/Basketball Operations. Shortly after the announcement, there was some skepticism if Bird could handle the day-to-day pressures and responsibilities of the front office job. Would he grow bored? Would he be able to deal with not having total hands-on with a team like he did as a player or coach?

"I can assure you," said Bird, "that I'll be the best I possibly can."

Those who know Bird's competitive fire will tell you he will succeed at that.

In his new role with the Pacers, Bird oversees the basketball operations of the franchise, from the coaches to budgeting to player personnel to scouting to contract negotiations to training. He relishes the opportunity.

"It's new, that's the biggest challenge," Bird said, "This brings me full circle, as a player, as a coach and as a head of basketball operations. I know it's going to be tough. I think I know how to do most of it, but Donnie is going to be right beside me."

In the summer of 2003, Walsh and Bird tapped Rick Carlisle to replace Isiah Thomas as head coach. Carlisle, a former assistant with Bird when he was coach of the Pacers, was Bird's obvious, and first, choice to step in. It was his first major move, one Bird hopes will lead to a return trip to the Finals and the chance at the championship.

Bird's motive, as player, coach and now front office executive, is the same: "I'm in this to win championships and that's the bottom line."

In Bird's first year as coach, the Pacers nearly got to his bottom line. For the third time in the previous five seasons, the Pacers reached Game 7 of the Eastern Conference Finals, this time extending the World Champion Chicago Bulls. Coming into the playoffs, the Pacers not only made the NBA pay attention, they made franchise history at the time. They had 58 victories, the most since joining the NBA in 1976; their .707 winning percentage was the best in the Pacers' history, including their storied ABA days; they were 26-15 on the road, a franchise NBA best and had the best road record of any Eastern Conference team. The Pacers amazingly didn't lose two straight games in the regular season after Dec. 10, and through the All-Star break, the Pacers had the best record in the East, thus earning Bird All-Star coaching honors.

The next season, the Pacers won the Central Division and reached the Eastern Conference Finals. In 2000, another Central Division championship and the trip to the NBA Finals.

Walsh, who will work side-by-side with Bird, couldn't be happier with his choice to take the Pacers from this point.

"I'm really happy to have Larry back where he belongs and I think this is going to be the beginning of a new era in Pacers basketball," said Walsh. "I think he is the perfect person to be here in Indiana, to take this team forward for the long haul. It has always been my dream, that when I gave up my job, that there's a guy in place who can take this franchise and keep it at a very high level. And I think Larry can do that."

Born Dec. 7, 1956, in West Baden, Ind., Bird became and remains a Hoosier basketball legend. He was an Indiana High School All-Star after playing for Springs Valley. He then played collegiately at Indiana State University, where in 1979 Bird was the college Player of the Year while leading the Sycamores to an undefeated season and the NCAA championship game. There, ISU met Michigan State and Bird met Magic Johnson. The Sycamores lost, but a rivalry of excellence between Bird and Johnson was established that would carry into and through their NBA years.

What Bird accomplished in his 13-year NBA career ranks him with the game's all-time greats: he helped the Boston Celtics to three NBA Championships; he was the league's MVP three straight years; he was the Rookie of the Year in 1980; he was twice an NBA Finals MVP; he was a nine-time all-NBA First Team selection; he was selected as an NBA All-Star 12 times, earning one All-Star Game MVP award; and he was a member of the 1992 gold medal-winning U.S. Olympic basketball Dream Team.

After retiring and serving as a consultant to the Celtics, Bird's competitive edge and desire to win began to work on him. "I wanted to be involved," Bird said. "I wanted to be out there being competitive every night. I'm too old to play, so the only option I had was to coach."

For the Pacers, the timing was right. There was no place like home.

"This is my home state, this is the place I wanted to do it," Bird said at the time. "I just want to win basketball games. I want to help the Pacers get to the places they've never been before."

Now, he's back to try it again.

Bird is married to Dinah. He has three children, Corrie, Connor and Mariah. He is an avid golfer and outdoorsman, while enjoying country music and auto racing.

Chief Operating Officer and General Manager

KELLY KRAUSKOPF

CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER AND GENERAL MANAGER

Kelly Krauskopf is in her seventh season as the Fever's Chief Operating Officer and her third as the team's General Manager.

Since 1999, Krauskopf has been the guiding force of the Fever from building the team roster to building a fan base for Indiana's Women's National Basketball Association franchise. In her role with the Fever, Krauskopf oversees all aspects of the team's operation.

Since moving to Indianapolis and beginning the task of building a WNBA franchise, Krauskopf has engineered numerous player moves enabling the Fever to improve the team and complete its finest season (21-13) in 2005, advancing to the Eastern Conference Finals for the first time in franchise history. Within the past three years, Krauskopf's key trades and free agent acquisitions have re-built the Fever roster. During the 2005-06 winter, in particular, Krauskopf was the league's most active GM, re-tooling the Fever roster with a pair of trades and a slew of free agent acquisitions which netted three new starters and a veteran presence that included Indiana newcomers Anna DeForge, Charlotte Smith, Tamika Whitmore – and the return of Olympia Scott who helped guide Indiana to its playoff run in 2002.

Other moves in recent years have resulted in the signing of veteran center Natalie Williams, and former backcourt males Tully Bevilacqua and Kelly Miller. A midseason move during the 2002 campaign brought veteran guard Coquese Washington to the Fever to ignite a late run to the franchise's first appearance in the WNBA Playoffs.

The cornerstone of the franchise was solidified by the draft selection of Tamika Catchings in the 2001 WNBA Draft. The third overall selection in the 2001 Draft and a 2004 U.S. Olympian, Catchings was named Rookie of the Year in 2002 and Defensive Player of the Year in 2005. She is a three-time WNBA All-Star and a four-time All-WNBA selection who has finished second or third in MVP balloting three times.

Bevilacqua, a veteran point guard from Australia who helped Seattle win the WNBA title in 2004, was added via free agency in January 2005 to steady the unit and direct the franchise through what would become its finest season.

Off the basketball court, Krauskopf has built another type of team comprised of community leaders and businesswomen called the Fever Advisory Team. The Advisory Team serves as a resource to the franchise in areas of corporate sponsorship development, ticket sales, community initiatives and fundraising for the Fever Fund of Pacers Foundation, Inc.

Krauskopf also serves on USA Basketball's Women's Senior National Team Committee, helping to select from WNBA players to develop U.S. National Team rosters. Krauskopf was a committee member from 2001-04 while helping select the gold-medal winning roster for the 2004 Summer Olympics in Athens, and will serve again from 2005-08.

Krauskopf has been in the forefront of the development of the WNBA. In September 1996, she was named the WNBA's first Director of Basketball Operations. In that role, she was involved in all phases of the league's start-up operation and initiatives. She also developed the league's first set of playing rules, officiating policies, scheduling and other league standards, while working daily with WNBA team general managers and operations personnel.

Before joining the WNBA, Krauskopf was the Managing Director of League Development for Media Sports Partnership, Limited in Dallas, Texas. From 1990 to 1994, she was Assistant Commissioner for the Southwest Conference. In addition to overseeing league marketing, she was the chief administrator for all eight women's sports programs in the conference. She served from 1986 to 1990 as Texas A&M's Assistant Athletic Director for Women's Sports/Marketing.

Krauskopf has served on committees for the Women's Sports Foundation; the Women's Basketball Coaches Association; Citizenship for Sports Alliance and Texas A&M's Lettermen's Association Board of Directors. She currently serves on the Indiana Sports Corporation Presidents Council.

A 1983 graduate of Texas A&M University with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism, she was a three-year letterwinner in basketball for the Lady Aggies after transferring from Stephen F. Austin University where she played her freshman year under legendary coach Sue Gunter.

Executive Staff / Pacers Sports & Entertainment

DAVID CRAIG

ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT

After 35 years as the head athletic trainer for the Indiana Pacers, David Craig is in his first year as assistant to the President, specializing in the medical aspects of the franchise. He reports to Pacers Sports & Entertainment's Chief Executive Officer and President Donnie Walsh as well as President of Basketball Operations Larry Bird.

In his tenure as head trainer, Craig distinguished himself as one of the best athletic trainers in sports because of his professionalism, knowledge, work ethic, organizational skills and personality.

With all of those things combined, the 58-year-old Craig has given the Pacers a valued employee.

Craig's athletic training education began as a junior at West Lafayette High School when he began working under Purdue University's William "Pinky" Newell, widely regarded as the father of modern day athletic training. That schooling continued for Craig as an undergraduate at Purdue and during summers he worked camps for the NFL's Detroit Lions and Minnesota Vikings.

Craig joined the Pacers prior to the 1970-71 season and was part of two ABA championship teams which he cites as "very important" moments in his career. Craig adds he "looks forward to being part of an NBA championship" team.

During his years with the Pacers, Craig has been justly honored. He was the first president of the Indiana Athletic Trainers Association and in 1993 won the organization's Professional Clinician/Athletic Trainer of the Year Award. In 1985, he was inducted into the IATA Hall of Fame. He served as the trainer for the Eastern Conference in the 1985 and 1996 NBA All-Star Games. In 2001, he won the Distinguished Trainer Award from the National Athletic Trainers Association. In 2003, he was named the recipient of the Joe O'Toole NBA Athletic Trainer of the Year Award and served as the athletic trainer for the 2003 Pan American Games in Santo Domingo.

In 2004, he served as one of the athletic trainers for the U.S. men's Olympic basketball team in Greece and was also honored as a Sagamore of the Wabash by the Governor of Indiana. Recently, Craig received a Distinguished Alumnus Award from Purdue University.

Locally, from 1978 to 1993 Craig served as president of Indianapolis Physical Therapy and Sports Medicine, Inc., a business he co-founded and oversaw an expansion of to six Indianapolis area clinics.

David and his wife Cheryl reside in Acton, Ind., have four children, Jennifer, Brian, Adam and Ashley.

Fuson helped oversee the Pacers' move to Conseco Fieldhouse in September 2000 and was promoted to Executive Senior Vice President of Pacers Sports & Entertainment in November 2001. In his current role, Fuson is responsible for execution of all aspects of the business side of Pacers Sports & Entertainment in addition to his role as Executive Director of Conseco Fieldhouse.

Through the years, Fuson has been active in pursuing major events for Conseco Fieldhouse and the City of Indianapolis. In the past, he was a member of the Executive Committee for the 1991 World Gymnastics Championships and served as chairman for the opening ceremonies. He was co-chairman of special events for the 1991, 1997 and 2000 NCAA Final Four, and served on the Local Organizing Committee for the 2006 NCAA Final Four. Head Coach Brian Winters

BRIAN WINTERS HEAD COACH

Announced as head coach of the Indiana Fever on Dec. 11, 2003, Brian Winters is in his third season in Indianapolis, after leading the Fever to its finest season in 2005 – guiding the franchise to a 21-13 record and a berth in the Women's National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference Finals.

Winters came to a new city and a new franchise for the 2004 season. The third head coach in Fever history, Winters assumed his first coaching position in the WNBA, after compiling 23 years of NBA experience as a player, assistant coach or head coach. Winters was a former head coach of the Vancouver Grizzlies and the Golden State Warriors.

The Fever finished 15-19 in his first WNBA season, twice rising to first place in the WNBA's Eastern Division before inconsistency and injury kept Indiana from a playoff bid during a virtual six-way tie in the final week of the season. His second season, however, was marked with a greater sense of confidence and familiarity as he and his staff engineered an aggressive, defensive-minded squad to the most wins in franchise history. A candidate for WNBA Coach of the Year, Winters and the Fever won its first playoff series with a 2-0 victory over the New York Liberty, to advance to the Eastern Finals against the Connecticut Sun.

"Brian brings a great deal of knowledge and experience to our franchise," said Fever Chief Operating Officer/General Manager Kelly Krauskopf upon hiring the former NBA All-Star. "Not only was he a tremendous player, he also has coached alongside some of the most respected coaches in the game."

She added, "As I spoke to people around the league who either knew Brian personally or worked with him, they couldn't say enough about his integrity and character. He will represent our franchise and this city in a very positive manner."

Winters began his coaching career as a college assistant at Princeton under legendary Pete Carril before leaving for nine pro seasons in Cleveland (1986-93) and Atlanta (1993-95) as an assistant to Lenny Wilkens, the winningest coach in NBA history.

The Queens, N.Y., native began his own head coaching resume in 1995, when he was chosen to guide the NBA's expansion Vancouver Grizzlies. He was an assistant with the Denver Nuggets for one season before landing at Golden State as an assistant coach midway through the 1999-00 campaign, under Garry St. Jean. Two years later, he was named the Warriors' head coach in December 2001.

As a player, Winters was a college All-American at South Carolina under Frank McGuire and associate head coach Donnie Walsh, now the CEO/President of Pacers Sports & Entertainment. A first-round draft pick of the Los Angeles Lakers in 1974, he began his pro playing career under coach Bill Sharman before playing eight years with the Bucks under Larry Costello and Don Nelson.

Mentors Carril, McGuire, Sharman and Wilkens all are members of the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame. They helped mold Winters into one of the greatest sharpshooters of his era.

In fact, one of the game's greatest legends, Michael Jordan, listed Winters among the sweetest shooters of all-time. When asked to identify the best shooter he ever saw, during an August 2004 interview, Jordan tabbed Winters. Said Jordan, "He had the most beautiful stroke of all the people I can think of."

Winters was an NBA All-Star during his first year with the Bucks – after arriving in Milwaukee for the 1976 season as one of four players exchanged with the Lakers for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. After an All-Rookie season with the Lakers in 1975 and his first All-Star appearance a year later, Winters was named an All-Star again in 1978. In all, he spent eight seasons in Milwaukee, leading the Bucks to six postseason berths. One of the leading playmakers and shooters in Bucks history, he still is third in franchise history in assists (2,479), fifth in games played (582) and steals (718), and seventh in scoring (9,743). He averaged 16.7 points per game during his eight seasons in Milwaukee, and 16.2 over a nine-year career.

Upon retiring in 1983, he became then just the third (now one of seven) Bucks players to have his number retired, raising his No. 32 on Oct. 28, 1983, in a Milwaukee win over Indiana.

It is in Indiana, coincidentally, where he renews an association with one of his Fever stars. The relationship dates to his time as a Milwaukee player when he first met Tamika Catchings as an infant. Harvey, her father, was traded to the Bucks prior to the 1979-80 season. Tamika was born in July 1979, and her father played alongside Winters for four more seasons. Another renewed friendship is that with Walsh.

Winters and his wife, Julie, have three daughters and three sons: Cara (24), Brendan (23), Kevin (21), Keelin (17), Meghan (15) and Ryan (14). Cara is a 2004 graduate of Santa Clara University who currently resides near the family's home in Denver, Colo. Winters' oldest son, Brendan, just completed his senior year at Davidson University where he was an all-conference standout who could pursue the game professionally. Kevin has completed his sophomore year at the University of Colorado. Keelin is a national-caliber soccer player entering her senior year at Regis High School. Meghan will be a sophomore at Regis and plays basketball.

Coaching Staff

JULIE PLANK

ASSISTANT COACH

In her seventh season with the Indiana Fever as an assistant coach and director of scouting, Julie Plank joins Holly Heitzman-Allison as the only members of the coaching staff to remain through each of the franchise's first seven seasons.

Prior to joining the Fever, Plank spent 13 seasons as an assistant with top college programs at Stanford and Vanderbilt. Plank assisted with the USA Women's National Team, coached by Nell Fortner, as an assistant prior to and during the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia.

From 1997-99, Plank, an 18-year coaching veteran, served as an assistant at Vanderbilt University where she directed the school's recruiting and scouting efforts and acted as the lead assistant during games.

At Vanderbilt, she was ranked as the fifth-best NCAA Division I assistant coach in the nation by Women's Basketball Journal in 1998. Plank joined the Commodores' staff after spending 10 years (1986-95) on the sidelines at Stanford University as an assistant to 1996 gold medal-winning Olympic head coach Tara VanDerveer. Reunited with her head coach in college, she helped direct the Cardinal to eight consecutive NCAA Tournaments (1988-95), four Final Four appearances (1990-92, 1995) and two NCAA championships (1990, 1992). While helping Stanford to a 251-62 (.802) overall record, Plank's duties included overseeing the Cardinal's scheduling, scouting and conditioning efforts, in addition to working closely with the development of the team's guards.

Plank began her assistant coaching career at Capital University (Ohio) in 1984, where she spent two years as an assistant, helping Capital to a 38-9 record (.809). Overall, she has helped three different schools to a 343-104 record (.767).

A native of Columbus, Ohio, Plank played four years at Ohio State University where she was a three-year starter at point guard. She helped lead the Buckeyes to a 23-5 record and the school's first Big Ten Conference women's basketball title, as a senior in 1983.

She attended Bishop Hartley High School and led her team to two Ohio state high school championships. In February 2001, the school retired her No. 13 jersey in honor of her accomplishments.

LIN DUNN

ASSISTANT COACH

Former Purdue University and Seattle Storm head coach Lin Dunn is in her third season as an assistant coach with the Indiana Fever. Dunn, who last coached with the Storm for three seasons from 2000-02, was hired by Fever coach Brian Winters after serving in a scouting capacity with the Fever in 2003. Her on-court responsibilities include defense and work with Fever post players.

Dunn's addition to the Fever staff marked her return to the WNBA, while remaining close to her hometown of Dresden, Tenn. Ironically, it was at Conesco Fieldhouse that she recorded her 500th coaching victory when her Storm defeated the Fever, 74-71 in overtime, on June 4, 2001.

One of the most highly respected collegiate and professional coaches in women's basketball, Dunn's coaching career is in its fourth decade and spans 525 victories (525-350 overall record).

Before joining the Fever, Dunn served as both the head coach and general manager in Seattle, operating the city's expansion franchise since it was awarded by the WNBA in the summer of 1999. She built the Storm team that is anchored by 2002 NCAA Player of the Year Sue Bird and eventual league MVP Lauren Jackson. Seattle went 17-15 and reached the WNBA Playoffs for the first time in 2002.

Dunn ended her tenure in Seattle with a 33-63 record. She was 447-257 in 25 seasons as a college head coach, and also served on USA Basketball staffs for the 1992 Olympics and 1990 gold medal-winning World Championship and Goodwill Games teams.

Dunn guided Purdue to three Big Ten titles and seven NCAA Tournament appearances during a nine-year stay that began in 1987-88. After two trips to the NCAA Sweet Sixteen, Dunn paced the Boilermakers to a 29-5 record in 1993-94, and reached the Final Four. She coached and recruited three All-Americans at Purdue, and such WNBA stars as Summer Erb, Ukari Figgs, Michele VanGorp and Stephanie White, formerly of the Fever.

Dunn was a college head coach for a quarter of a century – combining stints at Austin Peay, Mississippi, Miami and Purdue – before accepting her first assignment in professional basketball. After taking over the coaching reigns of the American Basketball League's Portland Power midway through its inaugural campaign in 1996-97, Dunn led the Power to a 27-17 record and a conference championship the following year. The remarkable turnaround earned Dunn the ABL Coach of the Year honor. Portland was in first place at 9-4 when the ABL ceased operations in 1998.

Inducted into the Athletic Hall of Fame at both Miami and Austin Peay, she is a 1969 graduate of the University of Tennessee-Martin. She earned a master's degree one year later at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville.

He spent most of 2004 as the sports performance director with Velocity Sports Performance in Kansas City.

Year in Review

It was the Indiana Fever's finest season. It was a season that began with few expectations, yet ended within minutes of the WNBA Finals. It was a season with record wins and an unprecedented finish. It was the finest of six seasons for a growing franchise and for the city and fans still learning to embrace the WNBA.

Guided by second-year coach Brian Winters, the 2005 Fever exceeded any preseason expectations set forth by fans, media and possibly even themselves. Led by All-Star Tamika Catchings and new point guard Tully Bevilaqua, the 2005 Fever was the finest the franchise had ever seen.

The Fever capped its season with a trip to the Eastern Conference Finals. Though swept in two games by the Connecticut Sun, the Fever was but a play or two in each game from turning the series into its own trip to the WNBA Finals:

- In Game 1 of the series, Indiana had the ball while trailing by three with a minute to play. A costly turnover followed by the Sun's desperation 3-pointer as the shot clock expired, raised the deficit to six with just 30 seconds to play.
- In Game 2 with virtually the same situation, Catchings' 3-pointer with 18 seconds in regulation sent the game to overtime. Catchings fouled out early in overtime, however, and the Fever couldn't hang on.

The Fever led the WNBA in steals and boasted the league's second-ranked defensive unit, all while setting a franchise record with 21 regular season wins. Indiana (21-13 regular season, 2-2 playoffs) was 14-3 at home during the regular season to set another franchise mark, and matched the Sun with the best home mark in the East. Indiana's seven road wins were also a franchise-high.

While defense and rebounding became the Fever's trademark, another solid characteristic was the play of its bench. Indiana's reserves routinely outscored opponent bench players. Case in point - nine different Fever players led the team in scoring at some point.

As Connecticut posted the league's best record and coasted to the Eastern Conference's top seed, the Fever maintained its second-place standing virtually the entire season, and clinched its own playoff spot with two weeks left in the regular season. In a rematch of its only previous playoff bid, in 2002 vs. New York, the Fever defeated the Liberty in a two-game sweep to set up its trip to the Eastern Conference Finals. The sweep of the Liberty was but one among dozens of highlights during the 2005 season. Here are the first dozen:

- Catchings was named the WNBA's Defensive Player of the Year. She was joined on the WNBA All-Defense First Team by Bevilaqua.
- Veteran center Natalie Williams announced that she would retire at the close of the 2005 season, and fittingly capped her career with a double-double in her final game - combining 11 rebounds with a season-high 17 points in the loss to the Sun.
- Catchings was also named the WNBA's Player of the Week on three different occasions, the most of any player in the league. She also became the fastest player in WNBA history to reach each of four milestones - 2,000 points, 1,000 rebounds, 400 assists and 300 steals. Catchings reached the milestone during just her fourth WNBA season, shattering the seven-year pace that it took Sheryl Swoopes, the previous fastest to reach all four milestones.

- The Fever drew 142,494 fans to 17 regular season home dates, drawing the second-largest figure in its six years at Conseco Fieldhouse. The Fever's average attendance was 8,382.
- The regular season win at Connecticut (Aug. 23) cemented the Fever as the East's No. 2 seed. The Fever was one of just three teams to win at Mohegan Sun Arena, winning 69-63. Not only did the win even the season series with its eventual playoff nemesis, but it clinched the home-court advantage in the first round of the playoffs.
- Pushing toward the playoffs, the Fever won five of its last six regular season games. Though falling short in the Eastern Conference Finals, Indiana entered the conference finals winning seven of its last eight.
- Among its biggest wins during that stretch was a 67-57 home win over the Washington Mystics (Aug. 18) that clinched not only a Fever playoff spot, but the first winning season in Indiana history.
- Just as big a win was its road victory at Phoenix (Aug. 14) just four nights earlier. While devastating to the Mercury's playoff hopes, Natalie Williams had 15 points and nine rebounds as Indiana earned a hard-fought win just one night after suffering a loss in Los Angeles. Indiana closed its West Coast road trip by winning two out of three games.
- In front of one of four home crowds over 9,000, the Fever beat defending WNBA champion Seattle (Aug. 4), 78-68, with Catchings scoring 24 points and Bevilaqua earning a win against her former teammates.
- In the Charlotte Sting's final season of play at Charlotte Coliseum, Indiana won both road games against the Sting. After losing each of eight previous outings at Charlotte Coliseum, the wins were Indiana's first.
- An overtime win over Detroit (June 15) was the first of three tightly-contested games with the Shock, which were all won by Indiana. The Fever beat the Shock in consecutive games on July 15 and 17, winning 62-57 at home before earning a 59-58 nail-biter on the road.
- While the Fever accumulated four straight victories just once, Indiana also never lost more than two in-a-row during its entire season. The Fever began the season with three straight wins, including a road win at New York (May 26). Its second three-game win streak began with perhaps the most dramatic shot of the season - Kelly Miller's running jumper through the lane with 0:00.9 seconds left to beat the Liberty (June 10) at Conseco Fieldhouse.

The WNBA

HISTORY

On April 24, 1996, women's basketball announced "We Got Next" as the NBA Board of Governors approved the concept of a Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA) to begin play in June of 1997.

Since that day in 1996 there have been many firsts for the WNBA:

- Val Ackerman — the first president of the WNBA
- Sheryl Swoopes — the first player signed to the WNBA
- Cynthia Cooper — the league's first Most Valuable Player
- Houston Comets — the first WNBA Champions
- Lisa Leslie — the first WNBA player to dunk

The inaugural WNBA season tipped off on June 21, 1997, with the New York Liberty taking on the Los Angeles Sparks at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, California. A crowd of 14,284 watched as Sparks' guard Penny Toler scored the first basket in WNBA history. The Liberty defeated the Sparks, 67-57.

10TH ANNIVERSARY

As the most successful and longest-running professional women's team sport in America, the WNBA looks forward to celebrating its 10th Anniversary in 2006 when we will pause to honor those who have enabled us to reach this milestone and eagerly look to embrace the future and the myriad opportunities that lie before us.

To commemorate this special anniversary season, the League will initiate a number of special platforms. Two of the more visible platforms will be the selection of 10 players to the WNBA All-Decade Team and the selection of the 10 Greatest Moments in WNBA history. Both initiatives will involve fan voting on WNBA.com.

Voting for the All-Decade Team, which will see fans, celebrities, media and basketball personnel narrow a group of 30 nominees to a list of 10 current and former players, will take place between April 28 and May 31. The team will be announced June 13 and will be honored at the WNBA All-Star Game in July.

The Greatest Moments program will involve fans choosing their top 10 moments from among a list of 20 nominations. The top 10 Greatest Moments will then be aired on ESPN and ABC broadcasts with the #1 moment being unveiled during the 2006 WNBA Finals.

The WNBA's 10th anniversary season tips off Saturday, May 20, 2006, and will include ABC's broadcast of the defending WNBA Champion Sacramento Monarchs as they commemorate their 2005 WNBA title by raising the championship banner prior to squaring off against All-Star guard Diana Taurasi and the Phoenix Mercury at ARCO Arena beginning at 4:00 p.m. EDT.

BROADCAST

The national television schedule for the 2006 regular season includes six games on ABC, 14 Tuesday night games on ESPN2 (including five doubleheaders), and nearly 50 games on NBA TV. The league's 10th season also will feature appointment viewing on Tuesday nights as ESPN2 will televise 14 WNBA games — including five doubleheaders — on Tuesdays this spring/summer.

Broadcast coverage of the 2006 WNBA postseason by ABC and ESPN2 will include more first-round games than in 2005, and continuing with the league's more consistent presence on ESPN2, every game of the 2006 WNBA Finals will be televised by ESPN2.

GLOBAL REACH

The WNBA enjoys significant popularity around the globe as evidenced by the fact that in each year since 1999, WNBA regular-season games and Finals contests have been telecast to more countries, in more languages, via more broadcast partners than the previous year. During the 2005 season, the WNBA set records with 68 telecasters broadcasting WNBA programming to 193 countries in 31 languages. In addition, WNBA entered first-time agreements with telecasters in many markets, including Albania; Belarus; China; the Czech Republic; Dominican Republic; Hong Kong; Nigeria; the Philippines; and Ukraine. International television interest in the league is driven by the league's many international stars, including Lauren Jackson of Australia, who in 2003 became the first foreign-born league MVP in the WNBA. In 2005, WNBA games and programming were broadcast to all 19 countries represented by one the league's 30 international players.

PARTNERS

The WNBA enters its groundbreaking 10th season with unprecedented marketing support for a women's professional sport. In addition to enjoying long-standing partnerships with major national and international brands such as Coke, Gatorade, Nike, Reebok, America Online, Spalding and Southwest Airlines, last season the league added major new marketing partnerships with Toyota, T-Mobile, and McDonalds. This year, new partners include Ocean Spray-Craisins and Luminari. In addition, existing partners Reebok and Spalding look on new roles, respectively, as the Presenting Partner and Associate Partner for the 2006 WNBA Draft.

The WNBA's marketing partners utilize the league to support women's sports and reach its strong fan base of women, families and young girls through advertising in the League's nationally-televised games, national promotions, player endorsements and special events. The WNBA delivers the highest concentration of adult women, who statistics show make the majority of purchasing decisions in American households, both in-arena and on television, of any sport.

WNBA ALL-STAR

On July 14, 1999, the league held the inaugural WNBA All-Star Game at Madison Square Garden in New York City, which was televised live on ESPN. The capacity crowd of 18,649 witnessed the incredible athleticism, teamwork, fan involvement and in-arena excitement that is unique to the WNBA. The Western Conference All-Stars — led by the game's MVP Los Angeles Sparks' center Lisa Leslie — defeated the Eastern Conference 79-61.

In 2003, the WNBA All-Star Game marked its fifth anniversary with a return to Madison Square Garden on July 12. The event made its network television debut on ABC. The West All-Stars won the event for the fifth straight year by beating the East All-Stars 84-75 in front of 18,610 fans, with Nikki Teasley of the Los Angeles Sparks taking home the MVP honors.

In 2004, the Summer Olympic Games in Athens, Greece, created a one-of-a-kind opportunity for the WNBA. After the league's decision to break for the month of August to allow Olympic team members to represent the U.S., the concept for WNBA All-Stars vs. USA Basketball: The Game at Radio City was born. Serving as an Olympic Team send-off, the game — played in front of a sell-out crowd — made history as the first basketball game played in the historic venue.

2005 brought the All-Star Game to Mohegan Sun Arena, home of the Connecticut Sun. The West All-Stars kept its perfect record alive (6-for-6) as they won the highest-scoring WNBA All-Star Game in history, 122-99. MVP honors went to Houston Comets' guard Sheryl Swoopes and Lisa Leslie converted on her second career WNBA dunk.

WNBA History Sheet

WNBA FINALS

The first four years of the WNBA saw the Houston Comets dominate the league Finals and create the first dynasty of the WNBA. The Comets captured the inaugural championship against New York on August 30, 1997, by a score of 65-51. Comets' guard, Cynthia Cooper won the first Finals MVP award. In 1998, the WNBA Finals expanded to a three-game series and Houston defeated Phoenix, 2-1. Houston's Cynthia Cooper captured her second consecutive Finals MVP award. The Houston Comets would go on to capture Championship titles in 1999 and 2000.

In 2001, Los Angeles knocked off Houston in the early rounds of the Western Conference playoffs and advanced to meet Charlotte in the WNBA Finals. Los Angeles, due in large part to the play of Finals MVP Lisa Leslie, won the WNBA Finals, 2-0. In 2002, Los Angeles advanced to the WNBA Finals and earned the right to defend their WNBA championship versus New York. The Sparks defeated the Liberty, 2-0, and won their second consecutive Finals. Lisa Leslie won the WNBA Finals MVP award for the second straight year.

In 2003, the WNBA had a new championship team, after just two champions in five years. The Detroit Shock captured the WNBA crown in front of a record-setting crowd of 22,076. The Shock won 83-78 over the Los Angeles Sparks in the decisive third game and Detroit center Ruth Riley was awarded the Finals MVP.

In 2004, the Seattle Storm and the Connecticut Sun both advanced to the WNBA Finals for the first time. In a decisive third game, the Storm who were in complete control the entire 40 minutes, defeated the Sun 74-60 and Seattle guard Betty Lennox captured the Finals MVP title.

In 2005, The Sacramento Monarchs and the Connecticut Sun competed for the chance to win the first ever best-of-five WNBA Finals. The Monarchs captured the team's first WNBA championship as they took down the Sun in four games. Sacramento center Yolanda Griffith won the Finals MVP award.

THE WNBA DRAFT

The Comets selected Tina Thompson, the Pac-10 Conference's leading scorer, with the first pick of the inaugural WNBA Draft. Margo Dydek, a 7-2 center from Poland, was selected first in the 1998 Draft by the Starz, and two-time Associated Press Women's Basketball Player of the Year Chamique Holdstock was the Washington Mystics' No. 1 selection in the 1999 Draft. In 2000, the Cleveland Rockers selected Ann Wauters from Belgium as the first overall pick, and Australian Olympian Lauren Jackson went to the Seattle Storm with the No. 1 selection in 2001. One year later, National Player of the Year Sue Bird was selected by Seattle, who had the top pick for the second consecutive year by virtue of the WNBA's first Draft Lottery, held in New York on November 13, 2001. The Cleveland Rockers made Latoya Thomas of Mississippi State the No. 1 selection in the 2003 WNBA Draft. The 2004 first overall pick has come to be known as the worst kept secret in the history of the WNBA Draft when the Phoenix Mercury selected University of Connecticut star and three-time NCAA Champion, Diana Taurasi. On April 16, 2005, Charlotte selected Janel McCarville from the University of Minnesota as the number one overall pick in the 2005 WNBA Draft.

IN THE COMMUNITY

Off the court the WNBA continues to position its players as positive role models for all of its fans - male and female, young and old. The League and its teams created and implemented programs which emphasized healthy lifestyles, positive self-image, breast health awareness, reading and youth basketball programs.

Through WNBA Cares, the WNBA is deeply committed to creating programs that improve the quality of life for all people, with a special emphasis on promoting a healthy lifestyle and positive body image, breast health awareness, youth and family development, and education.

WNBA Cares in partnership with NBA Cares, an initiative through which the Leagues, players and teams will raise and contribute $100 million for charity, donate more than 1 million hours of hands-on volunteer service to communities worldwide, and build more than 100 places where kids and families can live, learn and play over the next five years.

WNBA Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself encourages teens and women of all ages to learn more about their bodies and the importance of physical fitness through programs related to health, fitness, nutrition and self-esteem. Programming inspires teens and women to get started on "being fit" through small changes in their daily regimen.

The content of the program is communicated and delivered through a Fitness Journal, a "team" of spokespeople, national and local grassroots events, promotion and a mobile tour.

Also, this past offseason the WNBA was the recipient of the 2006 Women who Make a Difference Award from the National Council on Research for Women.

KEY RULES

- Ball size: 28.5" (high school and NCAA women's)
- 3-point line: 20'6 1/4" (International)

The WNBA has approved three rule changes for the 2006 season:

1. The format of WNBA games will be changed to four 10-minute quarters instead of the previous two 20-minute halves.
2. In addition, the 24-second shot clock replaces the previous 30-second clock. It will be reset to 14 seconds when a defensive foul or other defensive violation occurs with less than 14 seconds remaining on the shot clock. It will be left unchanged when a defensive violation occurs with 14 seconds or more remaining on the shot clock.
3. Jump balls to begin the second, third and fourth quarter, formerly the second half, have been eliminated and the winner of the opening tip will receive the ball out of bounds at the start of the fourth quarter. The loser of the opening tip will have position at the beginning of the second and third quarter. Jump balls, however, will still be used to determine possession after a held ball.

WE GOT GAME

Women's basketball has come a long way since its beginnings in 1892 when Senda Berenson adapted James Naismith's basketball rules for women. And with the continued growth of the WNBA, the sport continues to grow in popularity and set new standards for what women athletes, and women in general, can achieve. CREDENTIALS

Seating at Conesco Fieldhouse's press tables is restricted to accredited working media representatives. Non-working media will be seated in reserved seat areas when seats are available.

Single-game credentials must be requested no later than noon the day before the game (Friday noon for Sunday games).

You may request credentials by faxing, on company's letterhead, to the Fever's Media Relations Department at (317) 917-2599, or by writing, on your company's letterhead, to the Fever's Media Relations Department, 125 S. Pennsylvania Street, Indianapolis, IN 46204.

Credentials are good for admittance to Conesco Fieldhouse, the Bill York Media Room and home and visiting locker rooms.

Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up before the game at the media entrance.

MEDIA MEMBERS HOLDING FEVER SEASON CREDENTIALS MUST NOTIFY THE FEVER'S MEDIA RELATIONS DEPARTMENT IF PLANNING TO COVER A GAME IN ORDER TO RESERVE SEATING.

AUTOGRAPHS

SEEKING AUTOGRAPHS OR SOUVENIR ITEMS FROM PLAYERS OR COACHES IS STRICTLY PROHIBITED AND SUBJECT TO FORFEITURE OF CREDENTIAL.

MEDIA ENTRANCE

The media entrance is located at the southeast corner of Conesco Fieldhouse, off of Delaware Street. Only media members who hold Indiana Fever or WNBA media credentials will be admitted through this entrance.

BILL YORK MEDIA ROOM

Located on the Event Level of Conesco Fieldhouse in the southeast corner. It is accessible by either elevator or stairs near the Media Entrance.

The Fever must limit media room usage to members of the media only when valid Fever or WNBA media credentials are presented. It is impossible to accommodate family members, friends, guests or others.

The professional intent of the room is to provide a meeting and working place for the media and game personnel. Any abuse of the media room and/or media privileges will cause forfeiture of your credential.

SERVICES

Complete statistics, along with pregame notes, lineups, information regarding injuries and other pertinent facts will be furnished by the Fever's Media Relations Department.

Play-by-play and halftime boxscores will be delivered directly to the press table. Complete final boxscores, play-by-plays and postgame quotes and notes will be available following the game in the media room.

FAX - The Indiana Fever will provide one fax machine for use in the media room.

PRESS ROW

Your cooperation is asked in maintaining a working atmosphere at press row. Smoking is prohibited in Conesco Fieldhouse.

LOCKER ROOMS

Both the Fever and visitors' locker rooms will be open to the media for 30 minutes, beginning 90 minutes before tipoff. For example, the locker rooms will be open from 5:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. for a 7:00 p.m. tip.

Both locker rooms will be open for 30 minutes following the game. Players will remain in uniform for the media availability period.

Cell phone use by media is prohibited inside team dressing rooms.

PHOTOGRAPHY GUIDELINES

Only those photographers on assignment will be allowed space on the floor and their photo credentials must be worn prominently at all times.

Space permitting, other photographers will be allowed on the floor.

Credentials are good for admittance to Conesco Fieldhouse, Bill York Media Room and the designated photographer areas on the Fieldhouse floor. Only television photographers doing postgame interviews will have access to locker room areas.

Photographers are allowed only within the designated photographers' area at each end of the court. As necessary, spaces will be assigned by the Fever's Media Relations Department.

All photographers and camera operators must stay at least four feet behind the baseline at all times. In the event it is not physically possible to achieve this in certain arenas, an appropriate standard will be determined by the Fever's Media Relations Department and the WNBA.

Media/Photographer Information

Photographers must remain stationary and seated at all times, except during quarter breaks and halftime.

Photographers are not permitted on the court at any time during the game.

No food or drink is allowed on the playing floor.

Photographers cannot photograph from public walkways or vomitories.

If space is available, photographers may request to photograph from the media seating in the stands.

When placing tape on the playing floor, authorization must be received by a member of the Pacers Sports & Entertainment Media Relations Department or Facilities Division.

PHOTOGRAPHER'S EQUIPMENT

Photographers located on the baseline or sideline will be permitted only one standard size "Domke" bag, which must be placed behind the photographer during the game. Equipment not needed during the game must be stored off the court. One additional camera can be stored either beside or directly behind the photographer.

Each photographer will be permitted one monopod - NO TRIPODS - at courtside. No stand-alone remotes or seats other than "lawn-type" photographer seats will be permitted.

All film should be unpacked before the game and all trash should be properly disposed of by the photographer.

RUBBER LENS SHADES

In order to reduce the risk of injury to players, rubber lens shades are required for all still photographers, broadcasters, news and entertainment video and film crews who are authorized to shoot WNBA game action.

Any additional light sources or sun guns must either be removed or covered with bubble wrap.

Rubber lens covers are available by contacting:

Robert's Distributors, Inc.

255 S. Meridian Street

Indianapolis, IN 46225

(317) 636-5524 / (800) 726-5544

FAX: (317) 636-5793

The only exception to this policy will be for those photographers utilizing telephoto lenses (i.e. 300 and 400 mm lenses) when such lenses are used to shoot game action at the opposite end of the court. These lenses must be stored behind the photographer when the action is in the near side of the court.

PHOTOGRAPHY IN LOCKER ROOMS

No still photography is permitted in either teams' locker room.

CLOTHING

All photographers must leave any outerwear (i.e. coats, hats, etc.) in the Bill York Media Room during game action.

TV NEWS CREWS

Credential requests must be received by noon the day of the game.

News crews are restricted to crowd interviews in the Entry Pavilion, Balcony and Main Concourse. Interviews are not allowed in the vomitories on any level of Conseco Fieldhouse. News crews are not allowed on the FedEx Level or Krieg DeVault Club Level, unless accompanied by a member of the Fever's Media Relations Department. In order to enter a Suite, each news crew must have permission from the individual Suite Holder to enter their respective Suite. Once permission is granted, the news crew must inform a member of the Fever's Media Relations Department, and then will be accompanied into the suite by a member of the Fever's Media Relations Department.

During game action, news crews must shoot crowd reaction from designated areas. Check with the Fever's Media Relations Department for locations. No interviews will be allowed within the seating bowl once game action begins.

INTERNATIONAL MEDIA

All international media (affiliations distributed outside of the U.S.) requests are handled by the NBA International PR Department. Any international media member interested in covering an Indiana Fever regular-season game must first submit a request in writing to the WNBA. Please do not contact the Fever individually.

All credential requests must be received at least three business days prior to the first games requested.

Photo identification will be required when picking up confirmed credentials at the Media Entrance.

Requests may be FAXED to the attention of:

Ashley Reed or Atsushi Sugiyama

Public Relations Assistants, NBA International

FAX: (212) 407-8044

Additional information on international media policies may be obtained by contacting Ashley at (212) 407-8058 or areed@nba.com; or Atsushi at (212) 407-8052 or asugiyama@nba.com.

COMMUNITY HEALTH NETWORK CONTINUES PARTNERSHIP WITH THE INDIANA FEVER

Since 2005, Community Health Network, one of the top 40 integrated health care networks in the country, has been the Indiana Fever's premier corporate partner.

The Fever and Community have a lot in common. They are both active in Central Indiana. They are both dedicated to improving the health and lives of those who live here. And they both have goals and programs that promote fitness and good nutrition.

"Our franchise is extremely proud to partner with such an outstanding health care leader as Community Health Network," said Kelly Krauskopf, Chief Operating Officer and General Manager of the Fever. "Their commitment to serving the people in the greater Indianapolis area speaks for itself. With our shared vision of community outreach and service, I am excited about what we can accomplish together in making a difference in the lives of citizens in the Indianapolis community."

GETTING HEALTHY IS A TEAM EFFORT

As a member of the WNBA, the Fever takes part in a program that focuses on young women called WNBA Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself. This program encourages eating right, exercising and developing self-esteem.

Community Health Network has its own ongoing initiative called My Community Gets Healthy, which focuses on exercise, healthy eating and behavioral changes for a lifetime commitment to health.

The partnership between Community and the Fever unites the two organizations in their efforts to keep our region strong, fit, and well.

Fever players participate in various Community Health Network events and Community will conduct a health fair at the May 30 Fever game. In addition, Community and the Fever will present a free fitness clinic on June 4 at the Fishers, Ind., YMCA to help Hoosiers jump-start their fitness programs. Community also will support the Fever/YMCA Jr. Hoops Summer Camp, encouraging healthy activity among youth. The organizations will announce additional events throughout the year, including a heart healthy initiative later this season.

"Making Hoosiers healthier is very important to the overall health of the state of Indiana," said Bill Corley, president and CEO of Community Health Network. "We know that obesity and sedentary lifestyles can increase the risk of many illnesses and disease, raise health care costs and even impact the economy. We are excited about this collaboration with the Indiana Fever to make an impact in changing people's habits and getting them motivated to stay healthy."

A WINNING RECORD

Both the Fever and Community Health Network have a history of working in the communities they serve.

As a member of the WNBA, the Fever has enjoyed six years of off-the-court community involvement. The team, whose members frequently serve as role models for today's young women, has made quite an impact in promoting a healthier, stronger lifestyle.

Forming partnerships to promote better health is nothing new for Community. After all, Community Health Network has been a sponsor of the NBA's Indiana Pacers and actively works with the National Football League's Indianapolis Colts and the Pacers to support My Community Gets Healthy. This presenting partnership provides Community with an even greater opportunity to increase awareness about the importance of good health throughout Indiana.

Eating right, staying motivated and exercise are all key components. My Community Gets Healthy encourages people to walk, bike, jog, skate or do some kind of exercise for 30 minutes, at least three times a week. Participants can track their progress online or in an exercise journal.

Conseco Fieldhouse

With 750,000 square feet and 18,345 seats, this is a fairly new house that is, remarkably, an old home.

Conseco Fieldhouse, opened Nov. 6, 1999, when the Indiana Pacers hosted the Boston Celtics, is a step into the future while taking a walk back into history. It's big, yet comfortable. It has all the modern appliances, yet there's that favorite old picture on the wall. It is a building that is unique in today's sports society because the extra effort was made to make it that way. In other words, if you have a religion, you must build the appropriate cathedral.

In Indiana, basketball is religion. Conseco Fieldhouse is a cathedral. That's why the home of the Indiana Pacers and Indiana Fever unique.

"We wanted this building to have a kind of special feeling to it, that when people came into it they felt part of the tradition that the building is for," said Pacers Sports & Entertainment CEO & President Donnie Walsh. "I think this is a pure basketball arena that reflects the game itself and the roots of the game."

Ground was broken on July 22, 1997 on the $183 million multi-purpose facility and while there were blueprints, a scale model and dreams, it was hard for anyone at the time to fathom what would evolve. But what has risen 14 stories into the Indianapolis skyline is a fit perfect for the city, the state, the game of basketball at any level and the various events a facility of this type would host.

"There are so many features that make it one-of-a-kind," said Tom Proebstle, Project Designer for Ellerbe Becket, the Fieldhouse design firm. "The most obvious feature is the two huge glass curtain walls facing east and west that mark the beginning of an incredible architectural promenade as you are approaching downtown on the highway and see the lit-up glass set against the Indianapolis skyline. No other arena in the world can claim this. I'm sure it will be copied many times over."

That's the view from the outside. Inside, the unique look and feel of Conseco Fieldhouse fully takes over. The Entry Pavilion is a vast gathering place that funnels fans to the Grand Staircase. As patrons make their way up the staircase, their view takes them to their first look at the seating bowl (another unique feature) or to large, memorabilia cases on each side of the entrance to the Fieldhouse seating bowl.

From there, no matter which direction one takes, it's a nostalgic look. From the signage, to the concession stands, to the sponsor pavilions, to the bathrooms, to the practice facility, to the light fixtures, to the scoreboard, to the roll-out bleachers at the south end, Conseco Fieldhouse is unique, distinct and, as Pacers' great Reggie Miller described, "Unbelievable. Absolutely unbelievable. Far beyond my expectations."

Conseco Fieldhouse has suites (69), club seats (2,400) and state-of-the-art amenities. But it has a look and feel unlike any other indoor facility.

This unique feel has brought many comparisons and compliments to Conseco Fieldhouse. The USA Today calls the Fieldhouse "A Cathedral to Basketball" and Amusement Business Magazine refers to Conseco Fieldhouse as "The Camden Yards of Basketball." NBC's Bob Costas said Conseco Fieldhouse "is winning raves all around the league, many think it's the best building in the NBA."

In addition to hosting major boxing events (Vernon Forrest vs. Sugar Shane Mosley, 7/21/02; Roy Jones, Jr. vs. Richard Hall, 5/13/00) and the Indiana Pacers and Fever, the Fieldhouse has hosted visits from Pavarotti, Bill Cosby, Bruce Springsteen, The Boston Pops, John Mellencamp, Paul McCartney, Tim McGraw & Faith Hill, The Dixie Chicks, NSync, Brinley Spears, Crosby Stills, Nash & Young, Kid Rock, U2, and Disney On Ice. It has also played host to the 2002 FIBA World Basketball Championships, the 2004 FINA World Short Course Swimming Championships and the United States Gymnastics Championships.

Additionally, Conseco Fieldhouse has been cited for its compliance and exceeding of ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) requirements.

WNBA Playoffs Format

The top four teams from each conference will qualify for the 2006 WNBA Playoffs. The first and fourth-place teams, and the second and third-place teams, will each play a best-of-three first-round series. The winners of the first round series in each conference will then play in a best-of-three conference final.

TIEBREAKER PROCEDURE

The following tiebreak procedure shall be used to break ties for playoff eligibility, home court advantage and draft order. In determining draft order, non-playoff teams will always select before playoff teams.

TWO-WAY TIE BETWEEN TEAMS IN THE SAME CONFERENCE

1. Better record in head-to-head games
2. Better winning percentage in own conference
3. Better winning percentage against all teams with .500 or better record at the end of the season
4. Better point differential in games head-to-head
5. Coin toss

TWO-WAY TIE BETWEEN TEAMS IN THE DIFFERENT CONFERENCE

In order to break a tie, the following criteria will be utilized in the order set forth:

1. Better record in head-to-head games
2. Better winning percentage against teams in the opposite conference
3. Better winning percentage against all teams with .500 or better record at the end of the season
4. Better point differential in games head-to-head
5. Coin toss

MORE THAN TWO TEAMS TIED

As many teams as possible will be eliminated at each step. As soon as one or more teams are eliminated at any step, the process must begin again from step (1).

1. Better winning percentage among all head-to-head games involving tied teams
2. Better winning percentage against teams in own conference (if all teams are from the same conference) or better record against teams in the opposite conference (if one or more teams are in different conferences)
3. Better winning percentage against all teams with .500 or better record at the end of the season
4. Better point differential in games involving tied teams
5. Coin toss

SCHEDULING

FIRST ROUND

The first and second place teams in each conference will have home court advantage in the First Round and will host a Game 2 and 3 (if needed) of the series after playing Game 1 on the road.

CONFERENCE FINALS

The team with the better regular season record will have home court advantage in the Conference Finals and will host Games 2 and 3 (if needed) of the series after playing Game 1 on the road.

WNBA FINALS

The team with the better regular season record will have home court advantage in the WNBA Finals. The championship series will be played in a 2-2-1 format with the higher seed hosting the first two games and the final game, if necessary.

The complete and disturbing answer to the age-old question, "What's harder to swallow than a bee?"

A Missed Print Deadline

Bee Swallowing: A Concise History

Of all the items one can ingurgitate, the bee has always stood as the unequivocal standard by which all difficult swallowing has been judged. If one were to read the ancient texts, nearly half of them deal with this topic. It's a surprising fact, but true. Swallowing bees and the cosmos. That is basically it.

Usurpers!

Today, a new standard has infamously risen to dethrone the bee from his rightful perch atop things one cannot gulp—printers who can't meet their deadlines. That's why Sport Graphics is on time, every time. A program or banner delivered after your event is utterly worthless, and therefore incredibly hard to swallow both physically and more so metaphorically.

Returning the Crown

So for everyone who's heard a printer say, "Your project will be done on Flursenday," Sport Graphics is here for you and to remind you that "Flursenday" is not a day, not even for the Swiss. Give us a call. Whether it's our printing, signage, distribution or creative service departments, you know Sport Graphics will make your deadline. And soon, so very soon, the bee will return to its throat-stinging throne.
